EC 307: Economic Development

LSE Summer School 2010

Dear Student,

Welcome to the Economic Development course. In the next three weeks, we will address 12 topics within the field of Economic Development. We will devote one lecture and one class to each topic of these 12 topics.

Each lecture is based on a set of readings and is intended to give you an overview of the topic and acquaint you with current research in the particular area. Each class, on the other hand, focusses on a particular article and is designed to help you to explore the topic in greater detail. It is crucial that you read the prescribed article carefully and attempt to answer the questions set out in the class exercise sheet before attending the class.

This reading pack contains the reading list for the course, my lecture notes, class exercise sheets for the 12 topics and copies of the articles the classes are based on.

I look forward to seeing you in the lectures.
